

Greg Hansch Bio

Greg Hansch serves as Public Policy Director for the Texas affiliate of the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI). In this role he implements and oversees NAMI Texas' public policy and advocacy activities statewide, coordinating with the affiliates and members as well as representing the organization at the Legislature and the state agencies. From 2012 to 2014, he worked for NAMI Texas as Policy Coordinator and participated in the Policy Fellowship Academy of the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health. He is a Licensed Masters Level Social Worker in the state of Texas. He holds a Bachelors degree in Government and Politics from the University of Maryland and a Masters degree in Social Work with a concentration in Nonprofit and Public Management from Rutgers University. His experience in the mental health field includes serving in an executive role for a community-based mental health program, interning at a state mental health agency, and providing individual and group support services to students at a public high school. Greg is a family member of an individual with serious mental illness.